The London Chess Conference is the premier chess-related conference in the world. As part of the London Chess Classic in early December, international education and games experts gather for a weekend to discuss new research, current projects and practical knowledge on teaching, organising and communicating chess.

This year our theme is Chess and Technology with special regard to online learning, teaching and training. We are planning a hybrid conference with the core of the speakers and audience at our London venue and satellite gatherings in various cities. The conference stream will also be accessible online from everywhere in the world.
